Student plans diabetes aid

BY CATHY SPEARNAK
Daily Editorial Assistant

A senior dietetics major has a plan to help diabetics.

Kathy Roderick, 22, has designed a pamphlet that will aid diabetics in teaching illiterate patients about diabetic diets. Roderick, who works as a diet aide at Twin Cities Hospital in Tempton, said she ran across the problem of teaching people with reading difficulties about the special procedures involved in diabetic diets during her rounds at the hospital.

To cope with the problem, Roderick decided to create an aid for these special cases as her senior project.

The innovative senior came up with The Illustrated Exchange List—a color coded pamphlet divided into the six food groups. The pamphlet works on an exchange system, calculating certain quantities of food as a single exchange. The booklet uses simple words along with the colors to tell patients how much of each food they are allowed per day.

Roderick said a dietician fills in the back of the pamphlet with small stickers telling the patient what to follow. Graphic major Anne Marie Rossi collaborated with Roderick on the illustrations.

evaluation. Roderick's booklet was distributed to local diabetics.

Kathy Roderick

"People were really excited about the idea," she said. "They suggested a few changes but basically it was accepted quite well."

Roderick said she would like to have the pamphlet printed in quantity but does not have the money to pay for the costs.

She said she plans to copyright the pamphlet and send copies to the American Diabetes Association to find out if they are interested in publishing it. She said Twin Cities Hospital also hopes to use the aid.

Roderick said she enjoyed designing the pamphlet but ran into a few problems when it came to the basic concept and layout. All in all, the dietetics major said she thought the project was an important learning experience.

"The most important thing I learned was how to calculate out the diet and lay out the pamphlet in a way that would be easily understood."

Diablo

Fuel conversion study considered

BY RALPH THOMAS

Daily Staff Writer

A bill that would call for a study on the feasibility of converting the Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant to an alternative fuel source has been introduced to the state Legislature.

The bill, introduced by Assemblyman Henry Mello of the 28th District, went before its first policy hearing Monday, April 7. According to Bob Podesta, Mello's assistant, this is the first step toward possible passage of the bill.

Mello's bill would require the State Energy Resources Conservation and Development Commission to complete the study by Jan. 1, 1982. Podesta speculates the study would cost from $300,000 to $500,000.

The study would look at the technical feasibility of converting the controversial plant to coal, methanol, biomass or a combination of fuel sources. It would cover possible rate increases, environmental impacts and the time it would take to convert the plant.

The Pacific Gas and Electric Co. plant, under construction for a decade, has not been put into operation. It's opening has been delayed by opponents who question the safety of the plant, which is located two-and-a-half miles from the Hosgri earthquake fault.

Lyle LaFaver, a PG&E spokesman, does not think Mello's bill is necessary.

He said converting the Diablo Canyon plant to a different fuel source "would be economically and technically infeasible."

LaFaver pointed out that the cost of the Diablo Canyon plant has reached $1.7 billion. If it were converted to coal or natural gas, LaFaver said the cost would be boosted to $7 billion.

He also said it would take 11 years or longer to convert the plant to coal or natural gas. He said PG&E would have to purchase 32 special boilers, each occupying one-and-one-half acres. Those boilers would take five years just to be manufactured and delivered.

Podesta responded to this by pointing out that an independent assessment is needed from a body that is neither pro or anti nuclear. This, he said, is the purpose of the bill.

Senior project becomes a community celebration

BY SEANNA BROWDER

Daily Staff Writer

Four Cal Poly child development majors have organized a Week of the Child for San Luis Obispo.

The students — Donna Henley, Marla Geller, Melinda Young and Janice Hnath — have planned events and seminars through April 8-12 as part of their senior project.

"Children have no one to represent them," said Donna Henley. "People need to become aware of the opportunities available to children in the community. There is more than just school."

The women have been planning for this since October 1, 1979.

"It has taken a lot of time and work, more so than a research paper," said Marla Geller. "Organizing this was definitely hard work but seeing everything fall into place has made me feel that we have accomplished something."

"It has become more of a project with the community than a senior project," Henley said.

There will be experts speaking on schooling, discipline and children rights in evening seminars throughout this week. For times and places of the seminars, contact the Cal Poly child development department.

The highlight of the week will be on Saturday, April 12. A festival will be held at the Mission Plaza. A variety of booths, food and entertainment will be in the plaza.

Demonstrations by the police and fire departments will be given. A "petting zoo" will be put on by the Future Farmers of America. Experts in the fields of child nutrition, mental health and law will also be present.

"We did not have a budget," Henley said. "Everything has been donated or volunteered."

"I was surprised how people were so willing to participate," said Geller.

"The cooperation with Children's Service Agencies and the Child Care Resource Center was fantastic," Henley said. "We want people to know that there are organizations in the community such as these that can help parents and children."

"We were exposed to many professionals in the child development field," she said. "I have learned a lot about the type of careers there are in child development. It has definitely been a worthwhile project."

Henley said she hopes that someone else will pick up Week of the Child for their senior project next year.

"It would be sad not to see Week of the Child continue," agreed Geller.

More than friends

The American-Iranian hostage dilemma, and Russian crises in Afghanistan, have been eye-openers. They have not only exposed deep resentment of Americans by Middle East countries, but illuminated flaws in our partnership with allies.

Throughout these crises a majority of U.S. allies have been giving half-hearted responses to American pleas of coherence and unity in international policy. The administration has asked allies to support boycotts of Russia and Iran.

But, ho-hum, allies had more important things to consider: Would they alienate the Ayatollah Khomeini and bring his wrath? Where would they get supplements from lost Iranian oil? What would happen to their own country?

Japan has bluntly stated it refuses to go along with any oil boycott. It imports more than 90 percent of its oil and has claimed the loss of Iranian oil would be too great a favor, and for what?

France, with a troubled economy and government, would seemingly need to be drafted before it pitches in to help during the crises.

Germany fears Russian rebukes; its support has been mostly behind the scenes. A return to the Cold War has real meaning for Germans, who have fought long for a relaxed border in East Germany.

England alone has consistently backed the American boycotts of Iran and Russia. With no fewer troubles than France, England has spoken out against Khomeini and international terrorism.

What it boils down to is a poor show of cohesion inside NATO and among other American allies. That is reflected by inability to decide on any form of action. Consequently, the Soviets or other countries can play on ally disunity.

Talk of boycotts was shrugged off by Russia and Iran. The Soviets issued threats of repercussions to European neighbors.

But, if NATO and other free-world allies are to be taken seriously, they must start acting more like partners and less like fair-weather friends.

Daily Policy

The policy of Mustang Daily regarding letters and press releases outside of the newspaper staff is as follows:

Letters should be submitted to the Mustang Daily office in Graphic Arts building 226, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays or by mail to Editor, Mustang Daily, GRC 226, Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, CA 93407. Letters must include the writer's signature and social security number.

Editors reserve the right to edit letters for length, style, and libel. Letters should be kept as brief as possible. Inordinately long letters will not be printed.

Mustang Daily encourages reader comments on news stories, opinion pieces, and editorials.

Press releases should be submitted as early as possible to the news editor in the Mustang Daily office or by mail. All releases should include a phone number and name where further information may be obtained.

Editors reserve the right to limit, condense, rewrite and edit press releases and make judgements based on their news valued.

Letters

Apart from the news

Editors:

This is in response to a letter from Jan Gartenberg published in the Daily (March 14) during the waning days of last quarter.

In his letter, Gartenberg charged the KPCR news department with prejudice because of a story we ran during one of our newscasts. The story told of the arrest in Los Angeles of a rabbi and 13 students for disturbing the peace.

While we do not intend to enumerate here all of the considerations that go into the decision to use any particular story in a given newscast, we would like to make this one point: there is no logical connection between the use of any valid news story (which this one most definitely was) and the personal feelings of those who report that story.

For example, if a story on Watergate is run, does that demonstrate that the broadcaster who does the story is anti-Republican? We think not. As a matter of fact, there were some people in this country (and still are) who charged that the media was out to get Nixon. We would hate to think that Gartenberg occupies the same mental realm as these people, but he has certainly done nothing to make us think otherwise.

Strong language? Yes! We are all offended at being called anti-semites, and none more so than one of the KPCR news directors, whose orthodox Jewish family fled Russia at the turn of the century to escape those very attitudes we are now charged with.

Finally, if Gartenberg is really as concerned with equality as he professes, we suggest he discard his defensive attitude immediately and begin doing something productive toward that end.

Author to air issues of racism

The challenges faced by racial minorities will be the theme of two lectures at Cal Poly on April 10.

The dean of the School of Education at San Francisco State, Dr. Asa Hilliard III, will speak first at 7:30 p.m. in the Cal Poly Theater.

"Free Your Mind: Return to the Source, the African Origin of Civilization and Scientific Rationalism," Hilliard's second speech, is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the same place. This one will include slides.

Admission is free and the public is invited to both lectures.

Hilliard, who taught social studies, mathematics, psychology and history during his teaching career, now specializes in the impact of culture on testing and evaluation of children, cultural pluralism in teaching and learning and African and African-American history and culture.

The prolific author and speaker spent six years in Liberia as a Peace Corps education advisor, consultant and team leader for an educational project.

The lectures are sponsored by the university's Child Development Club, child development department and the School of Human Development and Education, in cooperation with the campus chapter of Delta Sigma Theta sorority.

Khan philosophy discussed

"The Architecture and Philosophy of Louis I. Kahn" is the topic for the next guest speaker in the Distinguished Architects Lecture Series on Thursday, April 10, at 8 p.m.

John Lobell, an architecture professor from Pratt Institute in New York City is expected to use Kahn's architecture to show parallels between Kahn's approach and that of Frank Lloyd Wright.

Lobell will speak in Room 105 of the Architecture and Environmental Design Building.

Credits given for exam

Cal Poly students and others from California high schools and colleges will be able to qualify for English credits by taking the CSUC English Equivalency Examination.

The test, which allows students to receive a full year of credits in freshman English, will be administered at Cal Poly and 18 other CSUC campuses on Saturday, May 3. The deadline for applying is Friday, April 11.

Students who achieve scores equal or surpassing the grades of typical college students will qualify for six semester units, or counterpart quarter units. In addition, these students will be excused from taking the campus' English Placement Test.

Other students, according to their past experience, and who score well on the English Equivalency Examination will be excused from the English Placement test.

'Worship' is the theme

"Old Time Religion is a Brave New World" will be the title for the first program on the theme of "Worship" that will be presented at Cal Poly during the Spring Quarter.

Robert S. Michaelsen

Dr. Robert Michaelsen will present the lecture on Thursday, April 10, in Room 220 of the Julian A. McPhee University Union.

Michaelsen will also lead a dialogue on the same subject with particular emphasis to the meaning of religion in current context in the Monterey Room on April 10, at 7:30 p.m. at the Discovery Inn, 1800 Monterey St.

Admission to both presentations will be free and the public is invited.

Admission to both presentations will be free and the public is invited.

Currently vice chancellor and professor of religion at the University of California, Santa Barbara, Michaelsen is expected to focus his remarks on a description of the persistence and durability of traditional forms of worship in Western civilization. He is expected to give special attention to evangelical Christianity, Catholic piety, and Judaism and Islam.

The series is offered by the School of Communicative and Humanistic Studies with assistance of funding from the National Endowment for the Humanities, a subsidiary of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Cal Poly hosts campaign speaker

Marvin Plagman, Senior Account Executive of the Plagman & Leeper public relations firm, will be speaking on how media campaigns are used to promote consumer products and services, in Room 303 of the Graphic Arts Building on Friday, April 11, at 3:30 p.m.

Plagman & Leeper is one of the largest independent public relations firms in the San Francisco Bay Area, and represents some of the nation's largest corporations.

Consumer Gripes

'How-tos' of complaining told

BY KATHY MCKENZIE
Daily Staff Writer

If you expect to get satisfaction when making a complaint to a store or business, there are three basic steps to take, according to a Cal Poly home economics teacher. Start at the lowest level of authority and work up; don't give up; and assume there's an answer to your problem.

Prudence Zalewski, who has taught at Cal Poly for four years, teaches a class titled "Consumer Role of the Family," in which students find out what they need to know about their rights as consumers.

"Merchants consider students somewhat of a pushover," said Zalewski of the fact that students are often taken advantage of by stores. "They know students don't have experience in purchasing and buying."

Zalewski emphasized the importance of student consumers getting to know what their rights are and what they can do if they have problems with defective products or poor service.

"Most (merchants) are nice, but you have to get tough with them," said Zalewski, who has been interested in consumer activism since she was a student. "You have to show them you know your rights, you know the law, and you know what you want to do about it."

Zalewski said certain steps should be taken by students with consumer gripes. First, students should talk to the salesperson who originally helped them. If there is no response, the student should take down the salesperson's name and go to the manager with the problem.

At this time, a student may also register a complaint against the business with the Tri-Counties Better Business Bureau in Santa Barbara. The BBB's address is P.O. Box 746, Santa Barbara, CA 93102. One can also contact the bureau to find out if this company has had complaints lodged against it before.

Prudence Zalewski, a Cal Poly home economics teacher, said students are sometimes taken advantage of by merchants. Zalewski said students should be aware of rights

The student should keep on trying to get a response from the company, if necessary, write the company president. If there is still no action taken, the student should call the Consumer Fraud Unit of the San Luis Obispo District Attorney's office at 549-5800.

Otherwise, one may write to the California Department of Consumer Affairs, Division of Consumer Services, 1020 N St., Sacramento, CA 95814.

There are also more specific agencies that students can go to if they have a particular problem — there is a certain agency that handles auto repair complaints, and so on, said Zalewski.

"Make yourself heard," she urged. "If enough students register complaints, something will eventually get done about that particular product or company."

Consumer agencies will generally help out in the problem or advise the student to take it to small claims court, which is "very easy," Zalewski said.

There are a variety of publications out that can help the student in consumer complaints, Zalewski said. Some of them are listed below:

— Justice for the California Consumer by John Silva

— The Complete California Consumer Catalogue by the California Department of Consumer Affairs, available from the Department of Motor Vehicles

— Savvy Shopper by Treasa Drury

— Consumer's Resource Handbook available free by writing the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 532 G, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

More books for consumers can be obtained from the university library in the consumerism section, said Zalewski.

But, she said, it's important students do research before they start shopping, especially when they make their first big purchase, such as a car or stereo.

"This is the worst time. The student is usually not informed about credit warranty rights, and the type of product that is right for their needs."

With inflation and the shrinking value of the dollar, said Zalewski, it's more important than ever for the student consumer to be aware of what can be done and what consumer rights can do.

"You can't let it ride anymore," she said. "You take no for an answer."

Spring receipts not picked up

More than 1,000 students have not picked up their spring quarter registration receipts, according to Supervising Cashier Ann Diaz.

"Beginning next week we're going to be sending out summer quarter registration receipts," Diaz said. "We'd like to get rid of the spring quarter receipts before then."

Receipts can be picked up at the cashier's windows, Administration 131E, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

'56 Poly graduate honored

BY RALPH THOMAS
Daily Staff Writer
Like father, like son...like son.

This seems to be the scenario of a successful San Luis Obispo family. Robert Warnagieris, a 1966 Cal Poly graduate, is the son of Joe Warnagieris, retired after being San Luis Obispo County assessor for 14 years. The younger Warnagieris recently received a distinguished service award from the Los Angeles Federal Executive Board. He was presented a desk plaque at a ceremony in Los Angeles to commend his involvement in numerous areas of public service.

"I'm very honored by this award," said Warnagieris, a supervisor at the Pacific Missile Test Center at Point Mugu, California, where he has been employed for 19 years.

He was one of six persons chosen to receive the award from the FEB, which represents over 100,000 federal employees in the LA area.

He was recognized for his dedicated involvement with public services, primarily in the areas of education and youth sports and clubs.

Warnagieris is a member, and former president, of the Ventura Unified School District.

In addition, he is vice president of the Ventura Girls Club, a club that provides services to 700 girls and boys of lower socio-economic status.

In his days at Cal Poly, Warnagieris was involved in the Blue Key National Honor Fraternity, the engineering council, and the air conditioning club. He graduated with a degree in air conditioning-refrigeration and went on to get a Master's degree in Business Administration at UCLA.

Such achievements are common in the Warnagieris family.

Warnagieris' sister is on the Governor's staff in Florida. One son, Lyle, is a junior mechanical engineering student here; the other is a graduate of UC Riverside. His daughter is a UCLA freshman.

Poly Rose Parade float competition now open

All students are invited to enter the design contest for the Cal Poly 1981 Tournament of Roses Parade float.

Prizes are $50 or two tickets to the Rose Bowl.

The parade's theme is the Great Outdoors, and float theme ideas include High Country, Wild Safari and Picnic.

All entries must be received by noon, April 18, at the Activities Planning Center, at which time they become the property of Cal Poly. The competition is sponsored by the ASI Rose Float Club and Rose Float Committee.

May ram test at Poly

The first ram test to be held at Cal Poly will begin May 17 with the arrival of purebred ram lambs.

The ram test will evaluate economically important traits such as weight per day of age, average daily gain and indexing based on the ram's performance.

"This is the first test of its kind ever set up in California," said Bill Jacobs, sheep specialist and member of the Animal Science faculty. "Cal Poly leads this type of test is needed for the sheep industry in the state and we feel we have very fine facilities for this kind of test."

Cal Poly has the facilities to test 150 rams — there is no limit on the number of rams a breeder can enter.

To be eligible, rams must be born between Jan. 1 and Feb. 29 of the year.

Six trophies will be awarded; to the breeders with the highest scoring individual rams and the highest scoring progeny groups.

For more information, call Jacobs at 546-2410 or Jerry Fitch at 543-4276.

Tennis team whips Matadors, faces finals

SUE BOYLAN

Daily Staff Writer

The Mustang men's tennis team achieved a decisive 8-1 victory over Cal State Northridge Friday in the Mustang's last match before the conference tournament, which begins Thursday at Cal Poly Pomona.

The Mustangs were tied with Dominguez Hills and Northridge for second place before the matches on Friday. Cal Poly's win over Northridge should put the team in a strong position going into this week's tournament.

"We wanted the match a little more," said Mustang Coach Ken Peet. "It was very important for us."

Mustang number one singles player Robb Chappell won his match, 6-2, 7-6, despite twisting his ankle in a match against Long Beach.

"I had no problem with my ankle. I didn't have to move much in the match," Chappell said. "It was a strange match for both of us."

Chappell was playing with an unfamiliar racket and his opponent from Northridge, Rich Bennett, was ill. Bennett and his doubles partner Phil Siordia had to forfeit their doubles match to Chappell and Martin Dyddell because of Bennett's illness.

The Mustangs beat

Northridge 6-3 at the Santa Barbara Tournament earlier this season. Cal Poly Coach Ken Peet said he had expected Northridge to be a much tougher team to beat at this meeting.

Cal State Northridge Coach Phil Munroe thought his team would be stiffer competition, too. "Cal Poly played smart. They stayed in the matches, they were patient. Cal Poly kept hitting the ball back to us until we made mistakes; that's the way the game's played. They waited until we beat ourselves," Coach Munroe said.

The Northridge coach said he did expect his team to win the first three singles matches, but the victory in fifth singles, Mike Goldowitz over Poly's Andrew Weber 7-5, 6-0, came as a surprise. "I thought we'd take all first three singles. I didn't expect us to win fifth singles, the only match I didn't expect, and we got that one," Munroe said.

"I think Weber has a good chance at an individual title in the tournament," the coach from Northridge said.

The Mustangs begin tournament play Thursday at Cal Poly Pomona. The team will play for individual conference titles as well as for points for the team title. Currently, Cal State LA is first in the conference.

Two cagers tabbed all-stars

The Cal Poly women's basketball team's two players from Calgary, Alberta—Laura Buehning and Colleen Finney—were named to the AIAW's All-Regional Squad it was announced Monday.

Buehning and Finney, who were the heart of Coach McNeil's team which earned its first-ever trip to the AIAW Western Regionals this season, were two of only 11 players named to this year's team.

Sophomore Buehning, who participated in the Olympic team tryouts in March, paced the Mustangs in every important category last year, including a 17.2 game average.

Finney proved to be the most consistent member of the team, averaging 14.4 points in SCAA games and practice game.

Softballers place in tourney

BY KAREN LUDLOW
Daily Staff Writer

Cal Poly's softball team surprised its opponents this weekend by finishing second in the annual Pony Express Tournament in Orange, as the Mustangs fell victim to Fullerton 3-0 in the championship finals.

Cal Poly began tournament play by shocking Las Vegas 1-0. Sheila Langrock gave up three hits, but was able to strike out 11 batters. Lorene Yoshihara scored in the fifth for the only run in the game.

The Mustangs then faced Chapman for the second game on Thursday. Chapman has whipped Cal Poly twice this season, but Cal Poly came out on top this time. The Mustangs, behind Langrock, defeated Chapman 9-5.

The Panthers scored three runs in the second to begin the scoring drive. Cal Poly evened the score in the top of the third. Yoshihara reached base on an error. Lin Majors walked, and catcher Phyllis Hickey batted out a double. All three were able to cross the plate.

The Mustangs scored six runs in the sixth to continue the drive. Chapman tried to come back in the seventh but was only able to score two runs.

Cal Poly then upset the San Diego State Devils of Arizona State in the semifinals. The Mustangs only received two hits off the Sun Devil pitcher, but that proved to be enough as the Mustangs won 1-0. Liz Kelly reached the plate by coming home on singles by Yoshihara and Gayle Wilkinson. Langrock was again awarded the win as she struck out two Arizona State players.

The Mustangs winning streak ended on Saturday, as Cal State Fullerton won the tourney title. Pitcher Rhonda Keiser was scheduled to start for the Mustangs, but was unable to because of an injury. Martha Eymmer started on the mound for Poly, but was later relieved of that duty by Langrock.

Royal Run scheduled

The Phi Kappa Psi fraternity and Royal Oaks, in conjunction with the Special Olympics program, is sponsoring the "Royal Run" which will wind around Poly campus April 20.

Entry blanks are available at the main desk in the University and at many sporting good stores. The entry fee is $4.50 in advance and $6.00 the day of the event.

Mustang Corral

The men's volleyball team, fresh off a fine performance against San Diego State Saturday, tangles with the tough University of Hawaii team tonight at 7:30 in the Main Gym.

The Mustangs extended the San Diego State Aztecs to five games before bowing out in the fifth game. Cal Poly took the second and fourth games, 15-12 and 15-6 but lost the first game 15-8 and the third game 15-10. The Aztecs and the Mustangs were deadlocked midway into the fifth and deciding game, but San Diego pulled away to take the clincher 15-8.

The Mustang baseball team, which had been floundering at the plate for most of the season, exploded for 51 hits and 36 runs to whip the UC Riverside Highlanders 15-4, 10-4 and 11-6 Friday and Saturday.

All nine Cal Poly starters collected at least three hits in the series. Shortstop Craig Gerber led the way with nine hits in 15 at-bats while Bryon Darling erupted for eight hits in 12 trips to lift his average from .111 to .333.

The women's track team placed third in the UC Berkeley Invitational Saturday by grabbing two first-place finishes. Maggie Keyes qualified for the AIAW National Championship by crossing the tape first in the 1,500-meter run. Natalie Vogel overcame a slippery field to win the high jump with a mark of 5-5.

On the men's side, sprinter Mike Bush punched in a 21.43 in the 200 meters in the Fresno State Invitational to qualify for the NCAA Division II National Championships.

Sports Car Club to meet

The club will be electing new officers and refreshments will be served following the meeting.

The Cal Poly Sports Car Club will hold a meeting Wednesday night at 7:30 in Ag 216.

Iran prepares for 'holy war'

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini urged Iranians on Tuesday to rejoice in their final break with the "world-devouring plunderer" America, and the Tehran government began mobilizing the people for a "holy war" of belittling and possible rationing to grapple with economic woes.

President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr declared there was "no reason to worry" about the U.S. economic embargo against Iran, but added that Iranians would need an extra effort to resist the pressure.

In a message to the nation, Khomeini said President Carter's anti-Iran actions would have no effect on the status of the 50 U.S. Embassy hostages.

in their 157th day of captivity in the hands of young Moslem radicals. He said a decision on their fate still must await convening of the new Iranian Parliament, which may be months away.

When Carter announced the break in U.S.-Iranian diplomatic relations and the virtual trade ban Monday, he said "other actions" might be taken if the hostages were not released "promptly."

U.S. Officials were not ruling out a naval blockade of Iranian ports or other military action. The Carter administration also sent strong signals to U.S. allies Tuesday that it expects some help in the economic offensive, but there were no signs of immediate cooperation.

Cuban unrest, trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, shifting gears from the Iranian stalemate, held talks Tuesday with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat aimed at pumping new life into slow-moving negotiations over self-rule for more than 1 million Palestinian Arabs.

As they met in the Oval Office, diplomatic sources were skeptical that an agreement on an autonomy plan could be wrapped up during the Sadat visit and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin's trip here next week.

All key issues, including how much authority the Palestinians are to have, remain unresolved with the May 26 target date for an agreement only five weeks away.

Carter's hope is that he can work out guidelines for Egyptian and Israeli negotiating teams in his separate talks with Sadat and Begin. Those teams, headed by Egyptian Prime Minister Mustapha Khalil and Israeli Interior Minister Joseph Burg, may meet here toward the end of the month.

Passing up formal arrival ceremonies, Carter posed quietly with Sadat for photographs in the White House Rose Garden before leading him to a quiet porch framed by flowering magnolia trees outside the Oval Office.

A second round of talks, scheduled for late afternoon, was to be followed by a dinner.

Guarantees for Israel's security were the likely focus of the sessions. At the same time, Sadat was expected to push for creation of a Palestinian legislative council and a rollback of Israeli forces on the West Bank of the Jordan River and in Gaza.

Anderson calls for oil sharing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rep. John Anderson called for "dramatic new means" to solve the Iranian hostage crisis Tuesday by enlisting the aid of U.S. allies for President Carter's economic sanctions.

"If we really mean to break the tragic impasse with Iran we need to consider on an urgent basis sharing our oil with the allies, who might be cut off from Iran, to win their support on the sanctions," the Illinois Republican presidential candidate told a joint meeting of the Los Angeles County Bar Association and the Women Lawyers' Association of Los Angeles.

Anderson's idea would involve further reductions of U.S. oil imports through conservation to make up for the 2 million barrels of crude exported to Western democracies by Iran.

Storms rip nine states; 2 dead

From The Associated Press
Dozens of tornadoes born in a "family of storms" splintered scores of homes and businesses, killed two people and injured more than 90 others in a two-day assault on nine states.

The National Weather Service said that since noon Monday, 14 tornadoes had hit Arkansas, six had touched down in Missouri, three in Oklahoma, three in Texas, two in Illinois, two in Mississippi, one in Kansas and one in Tennessee.

And the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City warned that more were likely. The National Weather Service said the tornadoes and thunderstorms that lingered in the region were "part of a family of storms."

The tornadoes were spawned in an atmospheric battle between temperatures of 101 in Texas and the low 30s in North Dakota, where as much as 6 inches of snow fell Monday.

Carter in talks with Sadat

WASHINGTON (AP) — "We are sailing in a sea of difficulties. We have been in this sea for some time, but the shore is far away."

In that way, Cuban President Fidel Castro candidly acknowledged last December that his revolution had fallen on hard times.

At the time, there were reports of increased street crime, worker absenteeism and black market activities. In addition, pamphlets and posters denouncing the regime began to appear in Havana. There also has been a dramatic rise in the number of Cuban "boat people" arriving in the United States.

The inundation of the embassy was touched off a week ago when a Cuban policeman was killed in a cross-fire while six Cubans seeking asylum were trying to crash their way onto the embassy grounds. The refugees came to drive a few days later when the government withdrew its security guards from the embassy and announced that those seeking asylum would be allowed to leave.

In truth, U.S. officials say, economic difficulties have spread throughout the Caribbean over the past few years.
